

Summer Adventures 2011

The background of the cover is a light gray with various white and dark gray illustrations. At the top, there are several butterflies of different sizes and orientations. In the center, a large sun with rays is partially visible. Below the sun, there are several musical notes of varying sizes and orientations, some with small starburst effects. On the right side, there is a vertical illustration of a paintbrush. The overall design is clean and artistic, with a focus on summer and creative activities.

A collection of programs and activities for students of all ages

Discovery

Discovery programs let children explore the creative side of learning. Opportunities in such areas as the arts and the environment await those willing to accept the challenge.
